The Interaction of Anti-Abuse Rules in International Tax Law

This volume aims to provide a comprehensive academic analysis of the intricate interactions between various anti-abuse rules in international tax law.

It is divided into three parts. The contributions of the first part deal with questions of the Interaction of domestic anti-abuse measures with anti-abuse rules to be found in double taxation agreements and also analyse these questions from an EU law perspective. In the second part, the contributions delve into the intricate interactions of anti-abuse and other rules in double taxation agreements and again incorporate the EU law angle on the challenges identified. The third part is dedicated to anti-abuse rules and principles under EU law and their interaction.
